

About Gary Franchi

Gary S. Franchi, Jr. is filmmaker, broadcaster, national grassroots organizer, and is the successor to the late Hollywood Producer Aaron Russo (Trading Places, The Rose) as the National Director of Restore The Republic (RTR). RTR.org is a powerful Activist Networking site, dedicated to spreading Freedom and Liberty, and was formed in response to the success of Russo's film "America: Freedom to Fascism." RTR was later singled out by Congressman Ron Paul for bringing tens of thousands of new patriots into the Ron Paul Presidential Campaign.

Gary has appeared on Fox News, PBS, CLTV, and has been interviewed on countless radio programs across the United States. His campaign commercials have been seen on CNN, Discovery, History Channel and NBC Nightly News with Brian Williams.

In 2010 he was featured as "Patriot Number 9" on the Southern Poverty Law Center's "Patriot Hit List."

He holds Level 4 National Security Clearance and has produced three documentary films with award winning director William Lewis about the loss of liberty and the resurgence of "Constitutional Awareness" in America. Gary was one of the featured speakers at the "Boston Tea Party 2010" at Faneuil Hall.

A the recipient of Freedom Law School's American Freedom Hero Award, Gary also holds a place in G. Edward Griffin's Freedom Force International Hall of Honor. Pulitzer prize-winning journalist Bill Dedman describes him as a sophisticated social-media entrepreneur.

In 2008, Gary co-hosted the pre-Tea-Party "Revolution March" in Washington, DC attended by over 15,000 revolutionaries. Gary dominates the alternative media with his show "The Reality Report", and raised over a million dollars in the first Super PAC to support Congressman Ron Paul for the 2012 Presidential election cycle.

Currently he is the Executive Producer and Lead Anchor of WHDT World Television Service 6 O'Clock and 11 O'Clock News & Weather in West Palm Beach, Florida.
